COMES BACK TO ATTEND REUNION

MAJOR NOGGLE RETURNS TO CITY AFTER LONG ABSENCE.

IS A SON OF JUDGE NOGGLE

Will Go to Monroe to Help Celebrate His Mother's Eighty-Eighth Birthday.

After an absence of thirty years, Major D. L. Noggle, the son of the late Judge David Noggle was in the city yesterday. He was looking over the city of his boyhood, and searching for acquaintances who might remember him. At present the Major makes his home in San Francisco, where he is weighing clerk in the United States mint.

A Janesville Soldier. Major Noggle enlisted from Janesville with the Twelfth Battery, during the civil war. He served some time with this battery and was then promoted to the lieutenant in the Fourth Battery, rising through the ranks of a brevet majorship at the close of the war.

A Family Reunion. Major Noggle was in Janesville, en route for Monroe where his mother, Mrs. David Noggle resides. Friday is to be her eighty-eighth birthday and from all parts of the United States, her children and grand children will gather in the first family reunion in thirty years. Major Noggle has come all the way from the Pacific coast while his sister, Mrs. Bromley, has come from the Atlantic seaboard. The reunion is to be at the home of another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Puffer, well known to Janesville people.

Those Present. Among those who will be present at the notable occasion, are Mrs. Mary Williams, widow of the late Congressman, C. J. Williams, who for ten years represented this district in congress, having been beaten for re-election by the Hon. John W. W. Williams, of Iowa state, Mrs. McGilinsky, of Idaho state, Mrs. Brainard of Chicago, Major D. L. Noggle, San Francisco, C. L. Noggle, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Buell of Milwaukee, Ward D. Williams and wife of Minneapolis, Mrs. Dr. Campbell, Watertown, South Dakota, and Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Puffer, at whose home in Monroe, the meeting will be held.

Judge Noggle. Judge David Noggle, Major Noggle's father, was in the war days, one of Janesville's most prominent citizens. As judge of the Circuit court he held a position of prominence, that gave him much prestige throughout his judicial district. After completing his term of office he moved away from Janesville, dying some years ago. His widow makes her home with Mrs. P. W. Puffer, her daughter in Monroe.

An Interesting Letter. The following letter to Judge Noggle from George B. Lesterly is interesting in itself as a war relic, but it also tells of a fierce engagement that Major Noggle's battery was in and the part he played:

Jones Landing, Va., Oct. 15, 1864.
Hon. David Noggle, Janesville, Wis.
Dear Sir:—Your letter of the tenth inst. is just received. You are doubtless ere this informed of Dorman's safety, as he told me he wrote you the day after Friday's engagement. Owing to an unfortunate series of circumstances I did not arrive here until Sunday, two days after the fight.

The engagement was a very desperate one in which our division was completely overpowered by numbers. The result of this battery was serious only in the four guns lost and the great number of horses killed, forty-five. Only a few men were killed which I look upon as providential from their critical condition. Every man in the battery fought like a hero and not one of them deserted his post.

The cavalry was completely routed early in the engagement and left the field entirely to the artillery. The battery fought entirely without support and nobly held its position, keeping up its constant fire and did not cease firing until the enemy were within a few yards of them, being completely abandoned by the cavalry and nearly surrounded by the enemy. When the general twice sent them orders to lunge up and try to get away, they even then insisted upon having a last shot which they took before limbering up.

Flight Necessary. The thing then was to get away. The rebels were close upon them pouring in a furious fire of musketry, and the only road for getting away which was not possessed by the enemy was through the swamp. They succeeded in reaching this but found that it was blockaded by the regular battery and there was no way of getting through. However they plunged into it, the horses miring down to their bellies and the guns to the axles. At the same time the enemy poured a volley into them, killing nearly all the team horses. The general then gave orders to abandon everything and each man to try and save himself. Not a man sought safety in flight before this.

A Masterly Commander. The rebels were now among them, calling upon them to surrender. Fortunately but few of them were taken prisoners and all of them managed to escape, save one, after getting through the swamp. Dorman soon collected them together, brought them up where the cavalry had taken refuge in an orderly manner. No company of men ever fought better or more obstinately; they fought the advancing enemy for some time alone and without support. The conduct of the cavalry in deserting them and making no effort to save them and their guns was most cowardly. Praise of the battery is on nearly every tongue of those that participated in the engagement. Notwithstanding this, the general features of the fight on the part of the cavalry, are so disgraceful that we are obliged to partake of it in the newspaper accounts.

counts. "Hardly any of the accounts in the papers are correct as not a single correspondent was on the field and their reports were made up from flying rumors gained from frightened stragglers.

A Big Responsibility. Dorman had a fearful responsibility upon him as being the only officer with the battery when there should have been four. I cannot sufficiently express to you my admiration of his conduct on this occasion.

He distinguished himself by his gallantry and coolness. My men are in raptures over him and say that no man could have commanded them better.

I am informed at headquarters that he managed the battery to the entire satisfaction, and that his conduct was worthy of all praise. You cannot imagine what a great satisfaction it was for me to be told this when I arrived here, and learned that the battery had been lost.

Dorman a Hero. The general told me that he had not the slightest complaint to make against the battery and he has already ordered new guns for us. A few days before the battle Dorman was engaged with one section in sight of us and so near Richmond, that he fired into the city—the first time it has been done since the war.

I have already recommended Dorman to the governor for promotion for "gallantry in action." My time of service expired on the 10th. I shall have to leave or take the chance for staying two years longer. My situation is such that I cannot stay that length of time, and still I dislike very much to leave now. I have asked permission to remain until the 15th of November. In preference to any of my officers, I hope that the governor will give Dorman the commission that I leave vacant.

Very truly,
GEORGE B. LESTERLY.

MOTHERS MET WITH MRS. TOTEN

Interesting Evening Was Spent on Wednesday, by This Novel Organization.

Mrs. C. L. Totten entertained the ladies of the W. C. T. U. and their friends at the Mothers' meeting last evening. The program as given in the Gazette was carried out. The subject under discussion being "How Can Mothers Best Cope With the Cigarette?" The following objections to the cigarette were brought out: Method of manufacture, the ingredients contained, the manner of smoking, its effects physical, mental and moral. These conclusions were reached. Mothers should thoroughly understand the composition of the cigarette and its effect upon the child. She should instruct her children along these lines. Mothers banded together can work to better advantage than single-handed. Mothers should co-operate with Sunday and day school teachers in forming anti-cigarette leagues. The wholesome influence of fathers and older brothers is needed. This incident was noted of a boy of about 12 years of age, who with a little original pledge secured many signers against the cigarette. Two new members were added to the white-ribbon army. The next mothers' meeting will be held with the superintendent. Announcements will be given later.

CROP OUTLOOK THROUGH COUNTY

RAINS HAVE DELAYED REGULAR FARM WORK.

GARDENS ARE IN GOOD SHAPE

Corn Nearly All In—Potatoes and Small Fruits Are Doing Nicely.

It is particularly noticeable that during the past few days the farmers have been having all the rain effects they care for. In some localities it is even asserted that too much of the heaven's liquids have fallen to suit them, and that while the crops now in are being given lots of nourishment, they would like just a little time to get more seeds in the ground so that the results would be larger.

A Big Country. The United States is a big country. Climates differ in different parts in strange opposition. It will be snowing in the Rocky Mountains and people dropping with the heat in New York. Wisconsin is also a large state, and what is good for the northern part of the state would not do at all sections of the country. Take Rock county as an example. In some portions they need rain badly, and prayed for it, in others they had much rather planted their fields.

Grown Well. All crops thus far in the ground are growing well. A drive through the county shows that the oats are well up, and the winter wheat, and even the spring planting show decided improvement over a week ago. While it has rained much, it has not damaged the crops in the ground, and has only been a detriment in hindering the farmer from planting more. The pastures have started up wonderfully and even the fruit trees have drunk in the moisture at an amazing rate.

High Winds. High winds and electrical effects have accompanied the storms, and they have done much damage to barns and other structures, particularly tobacco sheds. In some localities roofs have been blown off and sides carried some distances, but this damage is slight and cases of actual damage are few and far between. Trees were also sufferers, and many an old timer has been stripped of its highest and best boughs.

Gardens Flourish. This last week has been a bonanza for the market gardener. His sprouts have grown with wonderful rapidity and the weeds are also making themselves very much in evidence. They seem to grow as fast as the garden truck and even with more success. Peas, Beans lettuce and radishes seem to be the most flourishing. Onions are doing nicely and tomato plants show signs of a good yield.

Dug Trenches. Many of the gardeners have dug trenches about their beds and between the rows of the planting so that every drop of water would be utilized. This has worked well for small storms but when the downpour came this week in many cases, the roots of the plants have been washed out badly and the farmer has hard work to cover them up properly. Fortunately the sun has not come out hot and the plants have not suffered.

Corn. The corn is now practically all in throughout the county. Of course in some localities it has been neglected for more urgent farm work, but in most cases it has the advantage of the rain. Early planting has as a general thing, germinated well, and is now nicely up and shows signs of a rapid growth. In some sections plants are big enough for cultivation with the hoe.

Potatoes. Planting of potatoes has progressed very rapidly. The soil has been in excellent condition for the starting of the plants, and while it has been interrupted by the heavy rains of the past few days, about one-half of the crop is now in. Some fields were planted a week ago and they are just showing sprouts above ground.

Tobacco. Tobacco plants have grown with great rapidity during the past ten days, and the majority of them are in most excellent condition. No transplanting has yet been accomplished, but it is expected that much will be done in that line this week.

Early Frosts. Early frosts did much to retard the growth of the fruit trees. In some localities they were decidedly stunted but as a general thing they will give a small yield. Apple trees seem to be doing nicely, and will give a banner crop.

Over a ton of washing is handled daily by the company for their new railway customers, the linen arriving at noon one day and returning the next.

Realty Assessment Ended. Assessors Davies and Conrad have completed appraising real estate in the city and will tackle the personal property as soon as necessary blanks arrive from Madison. Next week the books in which the value of the realty is set forth will open at the city hall for the inspection of the property owners of the city.

Slowly the contributions for the Jewish relief fund continue to come in. Thirty-nine dollars and seventy-five cents has thus far been raised and is in the Gazette office waiting for more generous citizens to contribute before the list is closed and the money sent to one of the organizations who are handling the sums raised. WILL DECORATE VETERANS' GRAVES Daughters of the American Revolution Find Several Graves of Early War Heroes.

So far, the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, has been unable to find any graves of revolutionary soldiers. A committee of two, Mrs. Loomis and Mrs. C. Jackman were appointed to decorate what graves could be found. Three graves of soldiers of the war of 1812 are known, and one of the Mexican war. The society will, in an informal way, through its committee place on each of these graves some flowers and a flag on which will be printed the date of service and the letters, D. A. R. In the oak of the four veterans buried in Oak Hill cemetery are Justus Wheeler, Jos. Spalding, William Holmes, all of whom fought in the war of 1812 and Robert Williams, who took part in the Mexican war. Most of these men were well known in Rock county in earlier days.

Justus Wheeler, some of whose children are now living in Janesville was born at Landsborough, Mass., in the year 1783, and was of Welsh descent. He died in 1872. Justus Wheeler enlisted from Massachusetts in the war of 1812 with Samuel Leland, who afterwards lived here. Mr. Wheeler came west in 1840 and settled on what is now known as the McClellan farm. He graduated from the first class of Williams college and was the first president of the Rock County Agricultural Society. After graduating from college, Mr. Wheeler was admitted to the bar. He was one of the organizers of the First Methodist church in this city.

Several old residents who knew Justus Wheeler also remembers Robert Williams, for many years a blacksmith in this city. Robert Williams enlisted in the Mexican war from Troy, N. Y. He served through all the war as an artillery private, was under General Winfield Scott, and took part in the storming of the capital of Mexico, the battles of Monterey and Chapultepec, at the latter his foot was crushed by a bomb. Bob Williams was one of the first settlers here, coming in 1842. He did the repair work on the old stages that were run between Mineral Point and Milwaukee.

William Holmes served in the war of 1812, afterwards settling in Janesville. He was born in the state of Ohio. For a number of years he lived on what is now known as the Woodruff farm.

Josiah Spalding was in the war of 1812 later coming to Janesville. He lived a retired life in the Fourth Ward, not engaging in any business after coming here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Page of Chicago have taken up their residence at their summer home in Magnolia Road.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, May 28, 1863.—The Thirty-third Regiment.—Letters have been received from the thirty-third regiment, dated the 18th, near Vicksburg. They report the boys of Co. E. all well.

Captain Miles and Bentliff, and Lieutenants Burgess and Innes, with other members of the 22nd regiment, left this morning for St. Louis, where the regiment is to rendezvous.

The last official intelligence from Vicksburg is to four o'clock Sunday morning, when it was represented all was going well.

Advices from Kentucky represent all quiet in Burnside's front. The rebel force in Wayne county is estimated at 6,000 to 8,000. Pegram's headquarters are this side of Monticello. It is evident the rebels intend making a bold stroke.

Washington—All male contrabands in the neighborhood of Alexandria.

have been put to work on the intrenchments near there. Great alarm is caused by the report that Stuart's cavalry intended making a raid on Alexandria. Our pickets were attacked yesterday in the vicinity of Bull Run, and one killed. The enemy was chased ten miles, and some of them killed and wounded. It is supposed that there is no force of rebels from Warrentown to Aquia creek.

General Logan is stationed at the Big Black River bridge, to guard it, and Grant feels certain that he will be able to take care of Johnston. The latter has only about ten thousand men, exclusive of what he may have received by reinforcements.

Grant's army is larger than is generally supposed, and is quite numerous enough for the work on hand. It stretches completely around the doomed city, each wing resting on the river.

..Weekly Market Review..

The weather during the week has been mainly favorable for the advancement of all growing crops, but farm work has been retarded by the frequent showers, and in some localities heavy rains. The early part was generally warm, except along the lake shore where easterly winds prevailed.

Severe local storms were frequent. In portions of the state on Tuesday, and general over the state on Friday and Saturday. The storms were usually accompanied with high winds. In some instances buildings were blown down and trees uprooted. Severe hailstorms are reported from a few localities but the damage is confined to very limited areas.

Winter wheat and rye: The warm weather and abundant moisture caused these crops to make very rapid advancement. In the southern and central counties winter wheat is beginning to head and rye is strong and hardy. These crops have continued to gain steadily since the opening of the season and now promise to give good yields.

Oats, Barley and Spring Wheat: The excessive moisture during the seedling period interfered with the proper preparation of the ground in many localities, and caused poor germination, especially on low land. As a result there is considerable acreage where the stand is thin and uneven. There has been, however, quite a decided improvement in the condition of these crops during the past week, especially on upland soil. Corn: In the southern and central counties, planting is practically completed, while in the northern section about half the crop is in the ground. Early plantings have generally germinated well, and in some sections the plants are large enough for cultivation.

Potatoes: Planting progressed rapidly during the early part of the week, with the soil generally in excellent condition. This work was interrupted by the rains during the last few days. About one half of the crop is planted.

Tobacco: The week was very favorable for the growth of tobacco plants, which are considered in very good condition. No transplanting has been done.

Grass and Pastures: The present condition of grass especially clover, is such as to practically insure a heavy hay crop. Pastures are reported in very excellent condition. Fruit: Small fruits were injured to some extent by frost, and only a fair crop is expected. Apple trees are blossoming well and the prospects are generally satisfactory.

Southern Section
Albany, Green county: All crops look good; rain Friday morning was timely and much needed; corn a good stand and some large enough to plow.—C. B. Smiley.

Mazomanie, Dane county: Weather warm, with high winds for part of week; small grains fine; pastures never better for time of year; some potatoes planted.—J. H. Fessenden.

Randolph, Dane county: Small grains look good; grass making good growth; pastures fine; corn nearly all planted; weather very warm until Friday.—Geo. R. Davis.

Barneveldt, Iowa county: Fine growing weather; early planted corn up, but planting not finished; prospects for a heavy hay crop never better.—C. M. Grimstedt.

STOMACH DOSING WILL NOT CURE

Only Way to Cure Catarrh is By Breathing Hyomel

Ask any physician if catarrh is a blood disease and he will tell you that it is a diseased condition of the mucous membrane and that it cannot be cured by blood purifiers, pills, tablets or other forms of stomach dosing. The only sensible and scientific way of curing catarrh is by the use of Hyomel.

Breathed for a few minutes, four or five times a day, through an inhaler that is so small that it can be carried in the vest pocket, Hyomel will absolutely destroy all catarrhal germs and destroy the disease. Catarrh can never exist where Hyomel is used. It has a two fold action, destroying the disease germs in the air passages and lungs, and soothing and healing the inflamed mucous membrane.

For the last three months, The People's Drug Co., one of the most reliable firms in Janesville have been giving their personal guarantee with every package of Hyomel they sold, that it would effect a cure or they would return the money. They have had scores of reports of remarkable cures of both acute and chronic cases of catarrh by Hyomel; but only two people have asked for the return of their money.

The leading people of Janesville, ministers of the gospel, well known business men, and prominent lawyers are among those who have been cured by Hyomel. No other treatment has the endorsement of so many reputable people in all walks of life, as this scientific yet common sense cure for catarrh.

..Odd Treasures of a King..

Edward VII. Has Twenty-Eight Tons of Plate and Quercus Trees.

Quite apart from the treasures which become the property of every British sovereign and which consist for the most part of gold and silver plate, weighing altogether twenty-eight tons and valued at nearly £2,000,000, King Edward possesses a private collection of curios of which little is known.

The museum near the equestrian entrance at Windsor, according to London Tit-Bits, was really established as recently as 1896, when some workmen engaged in repairing the castle brought to light a number of relics dating from the Stuart period, and these, with such as were personally collected by Queen Victoria, have been set apart with several attendants to look after them. War memorabilia are present in large numbers, every campaign of recent years being represented since the Abyssinian war, at the conclusion of which Lord Napier presented the queen with King Theodore's cap and gold seal. Subsequently Lord Roberts added the scarlet saddle edged with gold and the silver bit captured from the late ameer of Afghanistan and Lord Kitchener presented the crimson banner of Wad Bishara, taken at Firket.

The collection of old china was made by the late queen and is composed of 10,000 pieces, its value being put at £150,000. Every piece is tabulated in a book kept for the purpose and against each entry is a record of what the article in question is worth, with a brief account of its history. One dessert service alone represents £20,000, it being of Sevres ware of extreme beauty, while a breakfast service given to George III. on his birthday in 1810 by his five daughters, whose initials are on every piece, is worth £10,000. Among the furniture is the writing desk given by Henry VIII. to Anne Boleyn on their wedding day; also an old Venetian chair used by the doges and dated 1670. A solid silver table of the same period is another treasure on which the king sets great store. The king's collection of feather cloaks is valued at £10,000. They are composed of gold, black and crimson feathers from a species of now extinct parrot and were given to George IV. by the king of the Sandwich Islands in 1824. Some of the feathers are so minute as to make each cloak a marvel of ingenuity. Another treasure, which at one time belonged to a savage potentate, is Tipu Sahib's eagle, taken from his throne at Seringapatam. The bird, nearly life size, is of solid gold; the beak and wings are tipped with diamonds. There is also a gold tiger's head from the same source, the eyes of which are of priceless crystal.

Not far away may be found the collection of walking sticks King Edward inherited from his mother, numbering 187 in all, and many of them of great value. One of these purchased at the Culloden sale in 1897, is carved to represent Wisdom and Folly, £160 pounds having been paid for it. Another, of black oak, originally belonged to Charles II., while a third is made from the wood of the luckless Alabama, the handle being carved to represent Capt. Semmes, the skipper.

The royal library, which now consists of 125,000 volumes, owes its origin to the late prince consort, and could not be purchased for £100,000. A second collection of 10,000 volumes, for which the king himself was responsible while prince of Wales, resides at Sandringham. In the Windsor collection are many books of priceless value, notably the Mentz psalter, of which only one other intact copy exists. Its value is £8,000. There are also the manuscript of Mozart's first opera and the copy of Shakespeare's works used by Charles I. Among the pictures are 21,000 engravings after such masters as Raphael, Da Vinci, etc.

Not the least interesting feature of the king's private museum is his collection of gold keys which have been presented to him at various times when opening public buildings. To each is attached a concise account of the ceremony with which it was connected, the total value of the collection being placed at £5,000.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Partly cloudy tonight; Friday, probably showers, warmer.

ROOSEVELT WITHOUT OPPOSITION

Ohio has long been noted for factional strife within the ranks of the republican party. The Hanna and Foraker elements have been at war for a decade or more, and while harmony has been maintained, the undercurrent of strife has been easily recognized.

The state is about to hold a republican convention, and the Foraker crowd possesses an ambition to have the convention endorse the president for another term. Hanna did not deem this action wise, and advised against, on the ground that the action was premature. This was regarded by the other faction as open opposition, and so was heralded over the country.

When the matter was called to the attention of the president, he wired Senator Hanna to the effect that he would be pleased with the endorsement of the convention, if friction could be avoided, to which the Senator replied that he would not oppose.

This little incident has been magnified by the democratic party, as well as by the enemies of Senator Hanna, with a desire to make it appear that the Ohio Senator is opposed to the president's re-nomination.

While it is doubtless true that the Foraker crowd had Hanna in mind, when the resolution was discussed, it is also true that the president has no more loyal supporter than Senator Hanna.

His name has been mentioned as a presidential possibility, but he has promptly and emphatically stated that he is not a candidate, and that President Roosevelt must be nominated without opposition.

The party will find as the campaign progresses, that Sen. Hanna will not be a figure head. He is recognized as a great political leader and a thorough organizer. President McKinley relied upon him, and thoroughly appreciated his work, and President Roosevelt will not be disappointed.

That he should have enemies is not at all surprising, and that politicians in his own state should be jealous of him, would be expected. Every man who becomes a successful political leader, is a target for abuse. He is characterized in yellow journals, and maligned by yellow constituents. The title, "Boss" is applied to him, and he is pictured as a servant to the devil, to such an extent, that many people regard him as an emissary of perdition.

Senator Hanna is too great a man to be injured by this sort of calumny. He is one of the largest manufacturers in the country, and for many years has been closely identified with industrial development. He is very popular with his employees and is noted as an arbitrator on labor questions. He is a public spirited man, and possesses a warm and generous heart. President Roosevelt has no better friend than Senator Hanna, and the republicans no better leader. The next presidential campaign will be noted for harmony, and the east as well as the west will be enthusiastic in support of the man who has cap and level headed common sense.

A GREAT STATE

The state of Iowa has been heralded with such glowing colors, and Wisconsin has suffered so much by comparison that the residents of the Badger state may be inclined to think that the promised land lies west of the Mississippi.

This is a mistaken notion. Iowa is a great state and has much to commend it, but it is only great in one direction, so far as industrial development is concerned, and that is the direction of agricultural pursuits. The state is also great in ideas, but many of them are so impractical, that they are a constant menace.

The "Iowa Idea" on the tariff has become a by-word in the ranks of the republican party. This is the latest but it is only one of a long list that fertile brains have developed, during the past quarter century.

The state has ideas on the currency question back in the greenback days. It also has a mania for granges with which almost every farmer in the state was identified. A prohibition hobby was cultivated and developed beyond recognition. It also had ideas on national legislation and exploited them so thoroughly as to bankrupt every road in the state except the trunk lines. Factories were drawn out of the state by the score on account of peculiar and impractical ideas.

Wisconsin greatness differs from that of Iowa in many respects. The state has a diversity of industries, second to no state in the union. The southern half is as rich in agriculture and dairy interests as any section in Iowa, while the northern half is a mine of rapidly developing wealth.

The paper and leather industries lead the country, while factories of every kind contribute to general prosperity. There is just now being developed in Sank county an iron mine, that promises to surpass all ranges that have made the state famous. A bed of rich ore, 35 miles long and from a mile to a mile and a half wide, is interesting unlimited capital. It is estimated that 2,000,000 tons of ore are in sight.

The state has never been troubled with very many ideas of the impractical sort. It has a hard headed constituency noted for horse sense, sometimes called conservatism. Bryan and La Follette succeeded in upsetting political serenity for a brief period, but the state is still intact, and will continue to prosper.

There is no reason why the citizens of Wisconsin, should sigh for the leaks and onions of Iowa, or any other state. They have a goodly heritage and becoming better every year. The man who fails to find contentment and happiness in Wisconsin, will be discontented after he possesses the pearly gates. It is a good time to saw wood, and not envy a neighboring state that is largely noted for "ideas"

Sometime some ones nice pet dog is going to run out after the fire wagon, having learned the trick from the numerous street curs and be killed, and then there will be a crusade against the street dogs. It is to be hoped that the crusaders will not wait for the occasion but begin at once. Poison is not a good method for it usually hits some inoffensive pet who sees a chance, to steal a morsel away from home but the dog license rigidly enforced would rid the streets of a horde of snapping, snarling curs that make life miserable.

New York has a new fire bug that appears to go around and set fire to tenement houses just to see the poor inmates roast to death or jump to the pavement and die by slow and lingering torture. Perhaps he is a regular Jekyll and Hyde, and then perhaps he is merely a poor fanatic that knows no better.

Some day the dogs will learn that it is a bad thing to run and try to stop a fire wagon when it is in a hurry. One little black fellow paid the penalty for his curiosity on Tuesday and others have likewise done the same in the past.

State politics are much muddled. One paper has it that a giant combination has been formed to defeat La Follette a year from now, and the others have merely a meeting of friends with common interests.

So Mr. Mark Hanna gave in gracefully and put his presidential aspirations into his pocket when it came to a show down in the Ohio convention.

Gorman says free silver is a dead issue. Has Gorman just learned to realize it or has someone told him.

Now is the period for that enticing mint julep and Col. Henry Waterson seems to have tested a few from the tone of his recent editorials about Grover.

The democrats are thought to be looking for another war hero to make a sacrifice of. They have tried civilians and soldiers before; but they did best before the war fever struck them so forcibly.

The old theory of lightning rods being a protection from the bolts of Jove is about played out. Half the places recently hit had lightning rods.

Now comes the joyous word that we are to have another freight handlers strike. Chicago merchants have been stocking up for some time past and many Janesville merchants have gone likewise.

There is such a thing as overdoing a good thing. Strikes may be, and are a sign of prosperity, but too many of them mean sure return of the hard times of '93.

Aided by the state militia, it will be funny if Jett, the Kentucky feud murderer does not remember a few items of interest.

Janesville's "White Wings" brigade are now busy cleaning out clogged gutters.

Last week we wanted rain, needed rain. This week it would be a good thing to see the sun shine once more.

PRESS COMMENT

Chicago News: Mr. Bryan naturally does not place much significance upon the cheering of the crowds which greet Grover Cleveland. It cheers were votes Mr. Bryan would be in a different sphere of activity himself at the present time.

Denver Post: The tongue of calumny is again after Cole Younger. An eastern paper accuses him of having once been a member of the Missouri legislature.

New York Press: Pennsylvania's press gag law does not seem to prevent the press from shouting its condemnation of the law and its contempt for the authors.

Denver Republican: Dr. Lyman Abbott says Adam never existed. Probably a few thousand years from now some iconoclast will be getting up declaring Abbott was a myth.

Minneapolis Journal: One of the latest and most popular fads with us is this breakfast fad. It is simple and pleasing, and after you have tried it a few times you feel like a new man. It is this: You get up in the morning and eat a hearty breakfast. It beats medicine.

Buffalo Express: The experience of Governor Pennypacker will be somewhat discouraging to future politicians who fancy they can quiet criticism by legislative enactment and executive threat.

Boston Herald: It was hard on Mayor Dennis Sullivan of Bridgeport to be hit on the head with a brick in a labor riot. It isn't the way to treat a labor mayor.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The Austin (Tex.) Statesman thus expresses its opinion as to what the next democratic platform should be: If we can't all get together on that platform, why not?

New York Press: When the Cleveland worshippers come to choose a running mate for him there will be plenty of good men to put on their ticket. Among others are Gen. Souphouse, Gen. Disaster, Gen. Depression, and Gen. Adversity.

Chicago News: Columbia must distinctly understand that it cannot pull off its revolution in any part of the canal territory belonging to Uncle Sam.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Racine may cut into the marriage business with its scheme of personally conducted bridal parties, but the Gretna Greenish glamour of St. Joe is against it.

REVIEW SCHOOL DECLARED OFF

NO SUMMER SESSION IS TO BE HELD.

WHITEWATER NORMAL OPEN

The State School Will Train Teachers from Several Counties—Institute Date Changed.

No review school will be held in Janesville this summer, as had been originally planned. This decision was brought about by two conditions —the lack of a sufficient number of scholars to assure its success in advance, and the fact that the Whitewater Normal school will hold a summer course especially adapted for fitting for teaching.

Fetter Facilities
It is the hope of the authorities at the Whitewater Normal school that the board of regents, when they meet in July, may see fit to establish a summer quarter permanently.
Their entire force of teachers will conduct the school this summer, and will be much better fitted to do so, than would the necessary limited force which could be employed at a summer review school for a single county. The Whitewater Institution is taking this step with the understanding that neighboring counties will help to fill out their attendance.

Institute Date Changed
One week earlier than was originally fixed is the date which has now been decided upon for the institute in this city, Monday, July 6. On that day the institute conductors, whose names have already been announced, will begin their labors. Miss Gertrude Zelniger of this city will probably take the place of Supt.
Yunker of Grand Rapids who was obliged to decline a place on the staff of institute conductors.

DAMAGE SUIT BEFORE COURT

TOLLES WANTS TOWN OF CEN-TER TO PAY.

HE SAYS HE WAS INJURED

Case Is Now In the Hands of Jury for Final Decision.

Although the Tolles damage suit against the town of Center was turned over to the jury before noon today, no decision had been reached at the time of going to press. Once the jury returned for instructions, being in doubt as to whether Tolles was driving on the main highway.
When the testimony had been read to them they again retired.

Willis Tolles, according to the testimony for the plaintiff, received painful and in part permanent injuries caused by a defective road in the town of Center, just west of "Draht's corner." The accident happened on a dark and cloudy night, October 22, 1920. As he passed the corner at about seven o'clock at night the king bolt of the buggy in which he was riding broke.

Whether the accident was the result of a defective king bolt or a ditch in the road, as the plaintiff claimed, was one of the principal matters to be contested. The permanent injury to Mr. Tolles, who is forty-eight years of age and resides in the town of Porter, is said to be paralysis of one of the muscles of his right shoulder.

On motion of the defendant the suit against Alfred Austin for the alleged theft of some corn from Judge Sale's farm was continued to next term.

The jury was waived in the suits of Jones against Valentine Bros., and against Miss Williams, appealed from a justice court decision.

A jury was drawn and testimony began upon the case of Miss Lighthizer against Miss Williams.
